

E&A Credit Union Provides Financial Education to Local High Schools

E&A CU has planned and implemented a Youth Financial Literacy Program in local high schools after receiving a Michigan Credit Union Foundation Community Reinvestment Initiative grant.

E&A applied for the MCF CRI grant to educate students in the community about financial literacy because none of the schools in the Port Huron School District offer any type of personal finance education.

Since receiving the grant, E&A Credit Union has given 16 presentations to more than 350 high school seniors in the Port Huron School District about financial literacy.

The presentations included topics about credit score, checking and savings accounts and credit and debit cards.

"Financial education is missing in our local schools and it is great that I am able to work with the students in our area and teach them about money management. I always have a blast with the kids!" E&A Youth Marketing Coordinator Megan Jones said.

The MCF awards grants to credit unions for projects that fit within the CRI mission of financial education, serving low-wealth and modest-means populations, and banking the unbanked.
